PA Stallion Showdown bracket challenge

Pennsylvania stallions had plenty of supporters as bracket voting revealed the state's favorite stallions of 2020. It was fitting that when the final result was announced on the first Saturday in May, the winner was PA-Bred Derby winner and superstar Smarty Jones!

> Purchasing a small farm in New Jersey sent Sharmyn Calhoun-Alley and husband Shane on a journey that includes breeding an annual crop of Pennsylvaniabred foals.

A Message to Pennsylvania Breeders

Dear Breeders,

During this unprecedented time my wish is that you and your families stay healthy and safe. Hopefully, we will be able to get back to a semi-normal lifestyle soon.

Many of you have asked when racing will begin again. Unfortunately, I don't have the answer to that question. Governor Wolf will determine when racing will receive the green light. After racing has been cleared, the racetracks will determine their timetables. It is still unsure whether racing will begin all at once or if the tracks will open according to color zones initiated by the Governor. What I can tell you is that we have been working diligently with the Pennsylvania Equine Coalition which is made up of Horsemen and Breeding organizations, both Thoroughbred and Standardbred, to convince the Governor to open racing. I can also tell you that protocols are in place so that racing will quickly resume when able.

I have also been asked what the program will look like when racing begins. The PHBA has begun discussions with the Horsemen on the various purse structures that will be implemented at the tracks. Each group has a different idea on where they want to be when that time comes. Please rest assured that we will leave no stone unturned to make sure we do the best we can until our funding is back to normal. Remember, when normalcy returns, and it will, Pennsylvania will continue to be the only place to Breed and Race.

This year's Annual Meeting will be held by Zoom conferencing on May 20 at 4 p.m. We will be sending out an email invitation that will explain how you can attend. We will have time set aside the day before so that you can use the provided link to test it out. Some of you may already be familiar with Zoom as many businesses and schools have been using it.

You have recently received an electronic voting ballot for Board and Officer nominations that must be completed by May 18. Bios of the proposed Board members are attached along with a voting link. Please take a couple of minutes and exercise your right to vote as a PHBA member.

Our Annual Awards Banquet scheduled for May 29 at the Mendenhall Inn has been cancelled but we won't forget the winners! Keep an eye out for our virtual awards ceremony that will be held sometime in June

Thank you and stay safe!

Couple finds harmony with Pennsylvania-bred foals by Emily Shields

Sharmyn Calhoun-Alley and husband Shane had just purchased a beautiful horse farm, but had no idea what to do with it.

Calhoun-Alley, a longtime horse lover, purchased an Allentown, N.J., farm with 12 acres, 10 paddocks, and a nine-stall barn, but wasn't quite sure which direction to head. "I had owned horses my whole life," she said, "and I was relocating my two riding horses with us. But I knew we could do more."

The farm's previous owner had racehorses, and took the couple to Parx in 2015 to meet others in the racing business. "I was introduced to Danielle Montgomery of Turning For Home," Calhoun-Alley said. "She suggested something we could do with the property: take horses off the track and rehab them."

Turning for Home is a non-profit organization that began in 2008 to help rehome horses off the track in Pennsylvania. After going through a certification process, Calhoun-Allev's place became a partner farm. "I rehomed about 15 horses while I was there," she said. "When you're around them, you just kind of fall in love with the sport."

Rehabbing retired horses soon moved into acquiring broodmares. The couple spoke to Dr. Jerry Kolybabiuk about their options, and noted that the general surgeon and his wife Maria were, "instrumental in our success. They mentored us and introduced us to other breeders. Dr. Koly even gave us our first two mares."

One was the Stormy Atlantic daughter Atlantique, and the other was the Marquetry mare Royal Marquesa. Atlantique's first foal for them, Atlantic Chill (by Winchill), has raced twice. "He's done everything right, but hasn't gotten to the winner's circle," Calhoun-Alley said. The sophomore filly Start of Royalty, by Jump Start out of Royal Marquesa, has not yet raced but has been working steadily at Parx.

The couple is hooked. Under the moniker Harmony Hill Stables, each year they breed two to three mares in Pennsylvania, despite the fact they relocated to Texas and reside on a new 55-acre farm in Fort Worth. "We still want to keep the breeding program going in Pennsylvania, so once a year we go on a big road trip," Calhoun-Alley said. "We take our 2-year-olds ready for training to South Carolina, drop them off, and continue on with our two mares to Northview. They have their babies and are bred."

The annual road trip is just part of the fun. "We don't always haul them ourselves, but most of the time we do," she said. "We are very hands on, and very particular about how they are cared for. It's kind of like a mini vacation for us in a weird way."

The Texas farm is always alive with activity, as the couple has four children, a heifer they show, and chickens, a goat, and a miniature donkey. "We have all the stuff you find on a farm," Calhoun-Alley joked.

That is in addition to the riding horses, yearlings not yet ready for training, and the perpetual string of retired horses that come through their doors. "I believe in aftercare, and Texas does not have an established aftercare program for horses coming off the track," she explained. "Texas has a good breeders program, but not as good as Pennsylvania. Their wonderful breeders program gets you 40 percent. We have friends there, roots there... I just have a love for Pennsylvania."

Calhoun-Alley loves her Pennsylvaniabreds so much that she wouldn't mind holding on to all of them. "I would love to keep them all, and I'll probably keep a majority, but you need to have an avenue for them to go onto their second careers," she said. "Turning for Home is a premier organization. It is the gold standard for what other tracks should be doing."

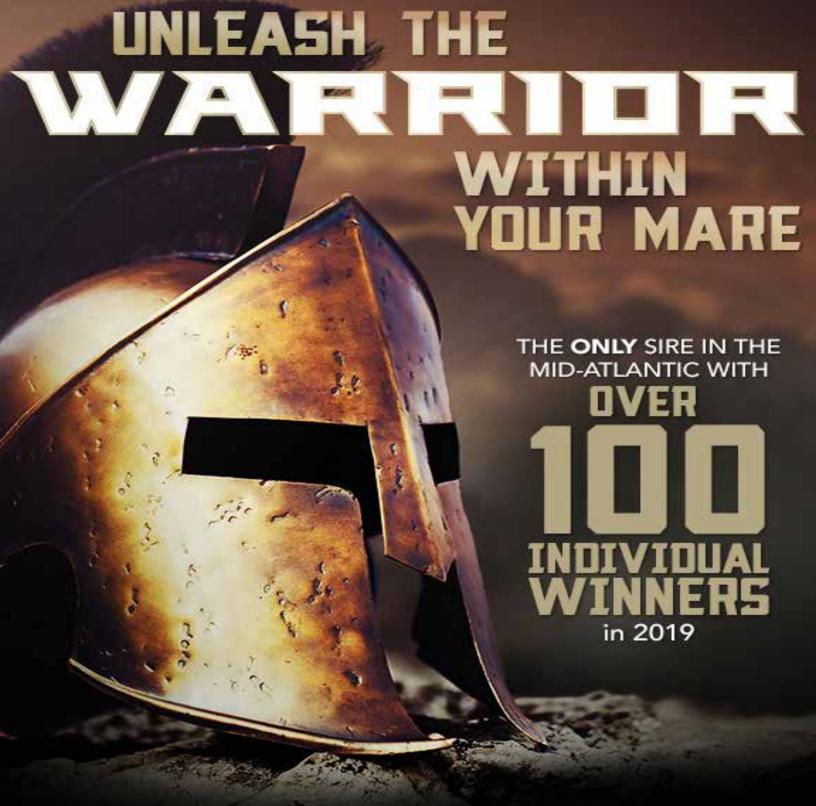

The couple got one of their broodmares, Summer Time Ranger, through Turning for Home. The daughter of U S Ranger is out of the stakes-placed In Excess (Ire) mare Bafferta, and was a winner at Laurel Park in 2014. She had the Uncle Lino filly Texas Tudy in 2018, a cleverly named Uncle Lino colt – Illbeasummersuncle — in 2019, and produced a Hoppertunity filly April 11. Their final broodmare is the winning Drosselmeyer mare Heartbreaker Girl, who produced a Peace and Justice filly last year they've named Breakingthepeace.

"We have a breeding share to Uncle Lino, but we've used a lot of the Northview stallions," Calhoun-Alley said.

As for young horses either at the farm or in training in South Carolina, Atlantique has a juvenile gelding by Uncle Lino named Tankinator, and produced a full brother named Vindicato last year. Royal Marquesa was bred to Bullsbay, Jump Start and Uncle Lino since delivering Start of Royalty, but has yet to catch back in foal. Calhoun-Alley names all of her horses early, signifying her attachment to them.

In addition to the horses, the couple is involved in the show cattle world and is likely to expand their reach there. "You show heifers on a two-year cycle," Calhoun-Alley explained. "The first year you show them unbred, and the second year they have to be bred. They are a lot like Thoroughbreds because they are all purebreds. We are going to start a little cow herd and allow the local 4-H kids and Future Farmers of America kids to show the babies and keep it going while we still own the underlying cattle."

With all the living creatures on the farm, feeding and caring for them can be a chore. "All four of the children are teenagers," Calhoun-Alley said. "They love the sport of horse racing and help us out very much. But when they all leave, we're going to need a little help!"

SPECIAL CONSIDERATION for mares foaling in PA

Desert Party – a Derby what might have been by Jan Sinatra

With the Kentucky Derby postponed until the first Saturday in September, the first week of May was spent looking back on past Derbys. New Pennsylvania stallion Desert Party has his own Derby story.

Desert Party ran in the 2009 Derby, and were it not for a slight injury he might have kept the world from ever hearing of the winner Mine That Bird.

Early Years

Desert Party was then called Cry of the Cat for his parentage: Street Cry (Ire) sire and Sage Cat dam. The yearling had such a positive and distinctive conformation that the owners who bred him felt they had no choice but to put him in the 2007 Keeneland September yearling sale. He exceeded all expectations that day and brought home $425,000. His purchasing pinhooker watched him continue his phenomenal development. The yearling colt went on to be the highest selling horse at that year's Fasig-Tipton Florida 2-year-old sale at Calder when going for $2.1 million. Sheikh Mohammed's Godolphin horse racing operation thought so much of the horse's potential they hoped to realize the lifelong dream of winning the Kentucky Derby.

A Classic Hopeful

Renamed Desert Party, the developing Thoroughbred continued to potential. After breaking his maiden at Arlington Park in June with trainer Eoin Harty, he shipped to historic Saratoga in July to compete in stakes company in the Grade 2 Sanford. He won handily and impressively, adding his name to an iconic list of winners that includes such top runners and sires as Tom Fool, Hail to Reason, Exclusive Native, Affirmed, Forty Niner, More Than Ready, City Zip, Scat Daddy and the immortal Secretariat.

Sheik Mohammed and his Godolphin racing team decided on their strategy: winter Desert Party in Dubai and point toward the Derby.

Desert Party started his 3-year-old season at Nad Al Sheba with trainer Saeed bin Suroor, who sent him out for wins in a conditions race and the Group 3 U.A.E. Two Thousand Guineas. During the latter race, Desert Party defeated stablemate Midshipman and established himself as his connections' best chance to bring the Derby to Dubai.

With Derby earnings already received, Desert Party next used the U.A.E. Derby-G2 as a tune up and ran second to stablemate Regal Ransom. But the jockey had not demanded a full effort of Desert Party that day: his connections had their sights focused on Louisville and the upcoming first Saturday in May.

Kentucky Derby 2009

Desert Party could not have come into Louisville in better shape. He continued to grow, displayed great color and most importantly was working well on the racetrack in the mornings. A large rainstorm left the track sloppy for that year's Derby. Desert Party drew the 19 hole, which is usually the kiss of death to a Derby entrant. This writer remembers that deluge of rain and the rivers of mud well: I was there at Churchill Downs May 2, 2009.

When the gates opened, Desert Party hit the ground running. He spent the first quarter mile trying to work his way toward the rail. Unable to reach the rail, he circled the first turn in the 4 path, which meant he was running much farther than his rivals. Coming into the backstretch, he settled down and found himself running fifth while passing other horses. This suited well with his running style and at the half mile pole he was still in fifth place within three lengths of the lead. Ramon Dominguez had him placed perfectly to make a stretch run.

Desert Party started his move on the far turn, and began to build momentum. With his nostrils flared and lengthening stride, he was perfectly positioned to make a strong run for the win. Suddenly at the 5/16 pole the jockey veered the horse to his right. He felt a brief hesitation as the horse took a bad step. Later this was found to be where he suffered a slight injury. I have re-watched and re-analyzed that video so many times over the years.

Coming off his position, Desert Party opened the rail up, and Mine That Bird made his historic rail run. As Dominguez realized something was not right, he chose not to ask any more out of Desert Party. Others passed him in the last furlong. Desert Party and his connections only could ask themselves "what if?" Were it not for the injury, he could have hit the board.

Later Racing Career

After taking time off to allow the injury to heal, Desert Party returned to training. Back in Dubai, he continued his winning ways in his first start after the Derby, Meydan's Derrinstown Stud Elnadim Mahab Al Shimaal-G3 in March 2010. Returned to the U.S., he concluded his career as he had started, with a win, as he turned in a dramatic display of power in the seven-furlong Donald LeVine Memorial at Philadelpha Park that summer, winning going away in 1:22.04. His connections realized the best thing for the horse was to pass these amazing physical developments onto his offspring.

Desert Party finished his racing career with an impressive record: 10 starts, six wins, including a Grade 2 and two Group 3 races, a second (in a Group 2) and career earnings of $928.467.

In The Years Since

Desert Party continued to grow, mature and increase muscle. He had better conformation at 5 than he did on Derby Day. As a sire he can pass on durability to his offspring. Original owner Dr. Stephen Sinatra could not pass up Godolphin's offer to buy back Desert Party in 2016, and he now stands in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania Breeding Program

The Pennsylvania Breeding Fund is one of the most lucrative breeding programs in the sport. The maximum award is 40 percent of the race purse.

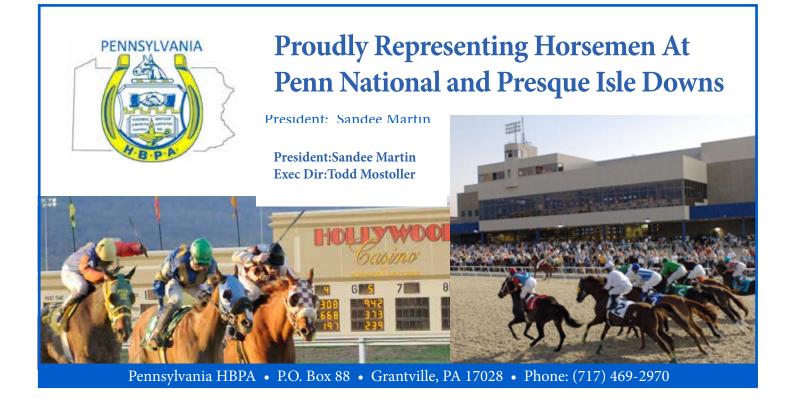

The Pennsylvania breeding program is one of the fastest growing in the country. The number of mares bred in the U.S. decreased by 3.5 percent in 2019. But 686 mares were bred in Pennsylvania, representing a 12.5 percent increase.

The growing popularity of the Pennsylvania program is the result of the establishment of the Racehorse Development Fund Trust in 2017. The trust guaranteed the government could no longer raid the Development Fund and take money away from the Fund for other purposes.

Someone wanting to breed for durability, strength and stamina need look no further than Desert Party. When you combine his stallion ability with the benefits of the Pennsylvania Breeding Fund, this an investment which provides a great chance of positive returns both with dollars and roses.

FASIG-TIPTON CONSOLIDATES SELECTED YEARLING SALES SCHEDULE

Fasig-Tipton will consolidate its July, Saratoga, and New York Bred yearling sales into one selected yearling auction – the 2020 Selected Yearlings Showcase – to be held on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 9-10, at its Lexington, Ky., facility. The company came to the decision after evaluating the progression of the COVID-19 pandemic in April.

"We are excited to offer our buyers and sellers a selected yearling venue in Kentucky," said Fasig-Tipton President Boyd Browning. "We envision this catalogue will include yearlings that would traditionally fit our Saratoga Sale, as well as those that would fall in the upper echelons of our July and New York Bred yearling sales."

The July, Saratoga, and NY Bred Selected Yearling Sales will return to their traditional dates in 2021. The company intends to conduct the remainder of its 2020 auction calendar as scheduled, including its upcoming Midlantic Two-Year-Olds in Training Sale on June 29-30 in Timonium, Md.

"2020 has been a difficult year so far, and we are all being forced to make decisions that we never envisioned having to make," said Browning. "We waited as long as possible to come to these determinations, conducting our due diligence to ensure that we make informed decisions that are in the best interests of our buyers and sellers.

"The 2-year-old sales season needs to conclude before yearling sales begin — which makes a traditional July Sale unfeasible," elaborated Browning.

"We considered several different dates in August and early September for a Kentucky sale, but the Sept. 9 and 10 dates make the most sense from a variety of perspectives," Browning continued. "For the travel convenience of buyers, as well as coordination of potential health and safety protocols, our sale and Keeneland September are best served to be positioned closer together. Fasig-Tipton and Keeneland have been in steady contact with one another and are working together in a cooperative effort to do what's best for our industry during these challenging times."

All yearlings catalogued in the Selected Yearlings Show-case will be approved on pedigree and physical conformation by Fasig-Tipton's selection team over the next several weeks, ahead of the sale's June 15 entry deadline.

Nominations for the Selected Yearlings Showcase are now open at fasigtipton.com. Yearlings already nominated do not need to re-nominate. Go to http://www.fasigshowcase.com for more details.
